Interesting Fact !?

The reasonable person adapts themselves to the furniture;
the unreasonable person adapts the furniture to themselves.

All progress depends on the unreasonable person !

Ergonomics 101, mind numbingly dull,
but surprisingly important when it's about you !

For an excellent overview on work surface height have a look at www.movingdesks.com

There is no one posture that is correct to remain fixed in for any length of time.
Ergonomics in practice, is a range of appropriate postures that are readily attainable at any time.

Supporting;

- improved working posture,

- Individually adjusted desk / monitor and

- choice of movement range

are major elements in creating a dynamic and efficient working environment to inspire and support peoples effectiveness, i.e. an individuals and a businesses most valuable asset!

Step through our simple ergonomics assessor to improve your self management in an office environment.
